
Whose food?

Problem

In many cases, we bought too many food to stuff them in the refrigerator, and we don't pay much attention to the food expiration date.

Always discard foods when they have developed an off odor, flavor or appearance.

Result

Idea

The food experiences the natural process of decay.

I'm designing an app to let people take control of their refrigerators. By documenting the information and the expiration date, the app can make notification.

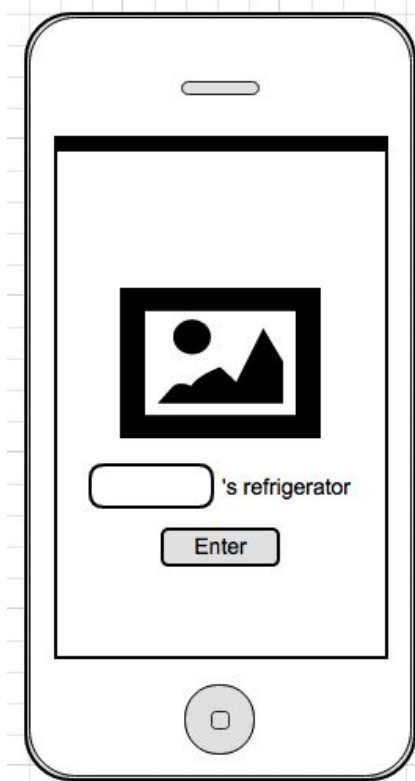

Don't wait the food to become rancid and ditch them.

Why people will use the app in TV?

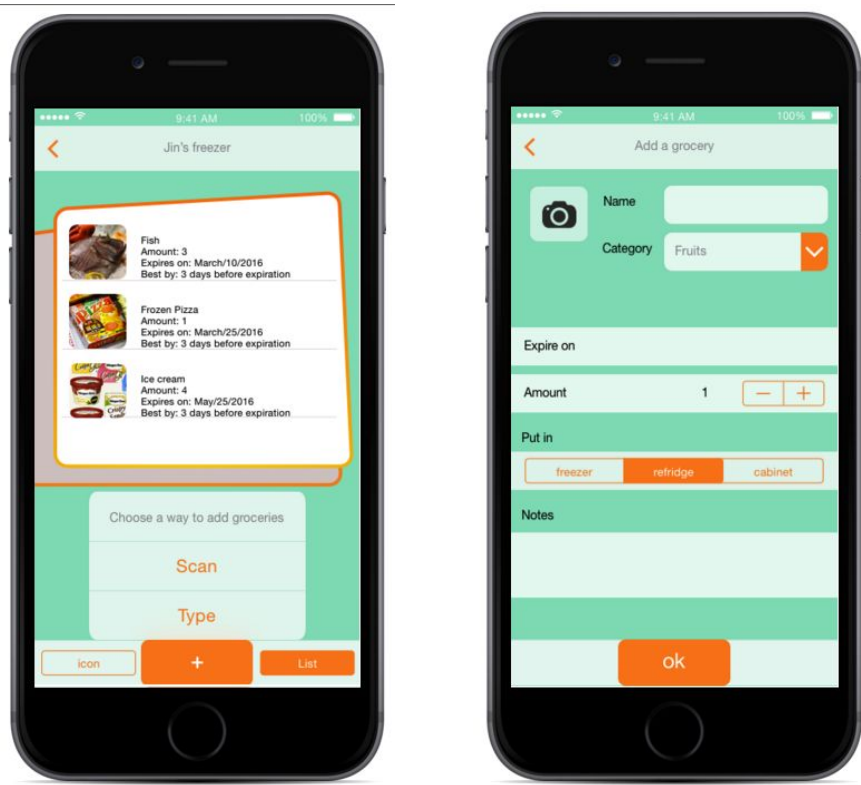

TV has bigger screen than the mobile app, which helps people has a quick glance at all the groceries they have and do some simple operations.

The application on TV will be a supportive thing for the mobile app. (Because it's more efficient and quick for people to scan and input the information of the groceries)
